

3 Top Carpet Fiber Types for Indoor Pets

Choosing a type of flooring could be a huge decision for those that are on the lookout for certain features. Carpet is a preferred choice for many people, preferring it over area rugs, hardwood, laminate, vinyl or tile. Carpet adds comfort to any room and it feels warm and comfy under bare feet. But let us not forget about our pets! Indoor pets are folk's companions, chums and members of their family. We like them indoor - with us. So to select the best fiber type carpet that may last and still look good for the family and indoor pets, keep reading!

Recycled Fiber is carpet which has been made of recycled plastics. More carpet today is being made from polyethylene terephthalate. Enormous words for huge results! This is wonderful carpet for indoor pets because it is very resistant to heavy traffic, it's static resistant and best of all, water resistant! No more stains, no more 'wet patch' looks and no electrical shocks! For the stated reasons, Recycled fiber is rated as the best fiber type carpet to have in the home with indoor pets. Maybe someday soon they will come out with Recycled fiber area rugs!

The second most popular fiber type carpet acquired in the carpet industry - Nylon. Nylon type carpet is the hottest sort of carpet that's acquired for residential homes. It claims 90% of the market! It's producing methodology and quality varies in style as it does with prices. This kind of carpet does extremely well with a place full of children and indoor pets. It's highly adaptable under traffic and it resists staining and soiling. It's generally sold as complete flooring or you can get nylon fiber area rugs too.

3rd best would become the new highest purchased type of carpet - Olefin. Olefin fiber carpet is made from polypropelene. Polypropelene is one of the fibers that is frequently used to make carpet. Like nylon, it too is adaptable under traffic and it resists staining and soiling as well . This type of carpet can work fine for families with indoor pets as it'll last for years. This is generally acquired for commercial purposes.

For example, plenty of business offices have this kind of carpet. It's highly durable and though it's bought for commercial use, it's superb for indoor pets too.

About the Author

Carpet comes in numerous different types and styles and colours. Selecting one to pander to the wants of housing indoor pets requires some research so you know which one will offer low maintenance, resists stains and will last a life-time!

Source: <http://anythingaboutpets.com>