

Pet Sitters Atlanta - The Best Choice

All pet lovers want the best for their furry little friends (or scaly, or feathery, or even bald!). One of the most stressful things pet owners have to deal with is what will happen if they need to go away? Many pet owners refuse to even consider a vacation because they and their pets won't even be able to relax. What's the answer? Pet sitters Atlanta.

Almost every pet owner will say their pets are family, they are their children, they are loved and they are treated like gold. Many of us will sacrifice our own needs to make certain that little Fluffy or Fido has excellent medical care, fun toys, quality food, and a comfortable bed ' which is usually ours.

Our lives are rearranged on a regular basis in order to make sure our pets are cared for. We change jobs to avoid business travel. We buy vacation condos so we can take our pets with us rather than finding a hotel that will allow us to bring them.

Or, we don't take vacations at all. We hate going away for long periods ' even over night ' for fear that our pets will be nervous, uncomfortable and just plain upset at our lack of consideration. And that's the problem ' what can we do to keep us and our pets calm during our time away?

Neighbors come in handy in a pinch. But unless your pets love this neighbor and run over to visit him on their own, this is not your answer. Neighbors might offer to feed the cat or walk the dog, but performing just these perfunctory necessities is only a fraction of what your babies need. Who is going to dole out the belly rubs, and hand out the after dinner treats? Who is going into the backyard to play fetch and role around in the leaves with them? Not your neighbor.

Don't even think about boarding your pets unless you want to come home to scared, sick, and nervous little guys who by now are so upset with you that they are in total destruction mode once they get home. You, your shoes, your sofa forget it. You will be punished, and severely, for your lack of your consideration in leaving them locked up in cages, alone in the dark every night, with no bones, no treats, no fluffy balls, and no you.

Hiring a pet sitter is the best way to go. Professional pet sitters understand pets, they are trained in animal behavior, and they will spoil your pets in the style to which they have become accustomed. More than dog walkers and litter box changers, these animal lovers will even move into your home while you're gone, if you'd like, to try to provide a resemblance to the home life your 'children' are used to.

You can tell how good she was by determining how you are greeted when you return. You may not have been missed all that much!
